Now Available for Review

El Paso, TX, September 17, 2017 - Hector Ramos announces his debut by publishing his first collection of stories, TRUCKS, GUNS, AND FUZZY MONSTERS. These dramatic short stories for a more adult demographic are available for download at Smashwords.com for $0.99.

The first story in this collection, "The Hitchhiker," introduces us to Tommy, a teenage misfit whom must find his way home after being humiliated at a high school party. A good deed from a stranger lead to a conversation that changes the way Tommy views his life.

With a desire to scare the audience and expand his horizons, he brings us the tale of "The Box" which shows just what monstrous events can happen when you're left a shifty package on your doorstep.

The final story in this collection, "Recon," brings us the reunion of mentor and student duo, Noah and Matthew, who haven't seen each other in years but do not seem very happy to have run into each other as their organization has one last mission for Matthew.

Hector Ramos is a screenwriter earning his Bachelors of Fine Arts in Creative Writing from Full Sail University. Preferring to stir up drama and keep his audience guessing, he loves to write suspenseful tales with different twists and shocking his readers with mystery.

TRUCKS, GUNS, AND FUZZY MONSTERS is available to download through Smashwords.com, the largest Ebook publisher and distribution site for indie authors on the internet. E-books are available in a wide variety of formats for E-readers, tablets and mobile
